Lesson Preparation

Essential Questions: What are ethics? What if people didn't respect others? Why is honesty important? Or courage? Or responsibility? Or self-discipline? Or self-respect? Engagement (Hook): Mark did not do his math homework. He takes Shondra's homework, erases her name, and puts his name on her paper. You watch Mark make the change. What do you do?

Procedures

Instructor Procedures:	Student Involvement:
1. Divide class into small discussion groups. Give each group markers and a large piece of butcher paper on which to write their ideas. Pose the following questions: "What are ethics?" "What if people didn't respect others?" "Why is honesty important?" "What about courage?" "Or responsibility?" "Or self-discipline?" "Or self-respect?" [Note: The counselor may want to discuss what the terms are, or provide students with definitions of the terms from which to work.] 2. Have the students brainstorm, writing their	1. Students will write their ideas on the butcher paper and discuss the questions in their groups. 2. Once the groups have come up with

As the groups present their ideas to the class, list their responses on the board. <ol style="list-style-type: none">3. Follow with the hook: “Why would ethics be important to employers?” Giving the students another piece of butcher paper on which to write their ideas during the brainstorming.4. Provide Activity Sheet “Ethical Dilemma Scenarios “. Students will discuss the dilemmas by assuming the role and point-of-view of each individual (including those not present) involved in the scenario.5. Closure: Ask for 3-4 volunteers to share the response of their choice with the class. Provide opportunities for students to have a small-group (3-4 students) conversation about their thoughts and questions they still have re: ethical decision-making. Preview of next guidance lesson: Employment readiness skills. Say something like: “Do you know ... that ... there are skills employers want all workers to possess—and those skills have nothing to do with what you know and are able to do related to job tasks? And that people lose their jobs because they don’t have “these” skills more often than because they can’t perform the job-related tasks?”	answers to the questions, they will present their ideas to the class. <ol style="list-style-type: none">3. Students will write their ideas on the butcher paper during the brainstorming.4. Students will work within their groups to come up with possible solutions to the scenarios.5. Students will respond to the questions listed at the end of the series of scenarios.

Teacher Follow-Up Activities

Ethical dilemmas present themselves everyday in the classroom. Encourage classroom teachers to point out situations in which students are presented with an ethical decision.

Counselor reflection notes (completed after the lesson)

Activity Sheet: Ethical Dilemma Scenarios

Scenario #1:

As an employer, one of your employees arrives at work 10 minutes late everyday. It's just 10 minutes, right (the employee does not have a car and must rely on public transportation to get to and from work—and this is her second job)?

Scenario #4:

You are with a group of employees in the stockroom. A package of CD's is open. You watch as a couple of the employees take copies of the CD's for themselves. They ask you not to tell the manager. What do you do? What are the consequences of your choices (the other employees are individuals with whom you want be friends)?

Scenario #5:

Devon gets a job at the local fast-food restaurant. He has to wear a uniform everyday that the manager says must be clean and pressed. He is tired when he gets home from work and doesn't want to do laundry. He has school tomorrow and is scheduled to work after school. What does he do? What are his choices?

Scenario #6:

An employer asks Juanita to complete a job assignment by 11:00 a.m. She is almost finished at 10:30, when her friend, Rhonda, comes by. Rhonda wants Juanita to take her break now, so that they can eat a snack together. What should Juanita do (Rhonda is the sister of the person Juanita wants to date)?
