| 1. Divide students into work groups of three to four students each. Give each group a folder, containing the materials for Jonny/Jenny Jones.
“Jonny and Jenny Jones are twins in the fifth grade. Jonny has brought his portfolio folder in for me to review. A portfolio is a folder, binder, or other file that holds a collection. A student portfolio should contain examples of materials that would give someone an idea of what type of student and worker Jonny is.” | 1. Students will move into work groups and listen to the story of Jonny. |
| 2. “Our job today is to review the materials in Jonny’s portfolio and decide what story his papers would tell us, if we were thinking about hiring him for an after-school job. A form is enclosed in Jonny’s folder, so that you can take notes on your findings.” | 2. Students will then complete the activity sheet, How Did Jonny Do?. |
| Check for understanding, then have students begin task. | 3. Students will contribute to the discussion. |
| 3. Once students have completed the task, they will discuss their findings with the class. There may be some disagreement among the groups, such as, was Jenny’s award placed in Jonny’s portfolio by mistake? Or did Jonny take her award? | 4. Students will list possible items that they may want to place in their portfolios. |
| 4. Once discussion is complete, review the items commonly found in portfolios. Distribute folders for students to use to begin compiling their own personal portfolios. Designate an area, either in the classroom or the counselor’s office where files will be stored, yet students can still have access. | |
