Lesson Preparation

Essential Questions: Why is it important to accept personal responsibility in our relationships with others?

Engagement (Hook): Ask the students to list any new challenges they have faced this years as a sixth grader. As the students come up with responses write them on the board/chart paper.

Procedures

Instructor Procedures/Instructional Strategies: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Tell the students you want them to help you list any new challenges they have faced this year as a sixth grader. Write the items students come up with on the board. If students have difficulty in listing items give them some ideas or examples of challenges you are aware they may be facing. 2. Circle the items on their list that deal with other people and their relationships with them. Review feelings, compromising, problem-solving and conflict-resolution skills. Ask the students how those items have anything to do with the relationship challenges listed on the board. Make sure to highlight that with true personal responsibility, when conflict exists in a relationship, each person bears a part of the problem. 	Student Involvement/Instructional Activities: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Students will volunteer to share challenges they have faced this year as a sixth grader. They may list things such as: having a locker, moving from class to class, carrying a lunch card, having an increase in homework, taking notes, going to school dances, making new friends, fighting with old friends, being bullied, etc. 2. Students should be able to see that relationships with others are a challenge and that new challenges have arisen this year. Students should be able to discuss in-depth feelings, compromise, problem-solving and conflict-resolution. They should be able to see that each person in a challenging situation has feelings and that those feelings may differ, that compromise is a positive step to working out challenging situations, and that problem-solving and conflict-resolution skills are

How Am I Responsible?

(Why is it my problem?)

1. Your parents wouldn't let you go to a party that your friend is having. Your parents think you are too young. They let you go to another friend's house instead, and you go to the party with that friend. Your parents find out and they ground you.

How do you feel? _____

How do you think your parents feel? _____

How can you show your parents you are willing to accept personal responsibility?

What could you have done differently? _____

How could problem-solving or conflict-resolution skills have helped in this situation?

2. A friend stops spending time with you between classes and at lunch. Your friend hasn't told you why they are not spending time with you. You start talking to your other friends and tell them not to spend time with your friend, telling them that he/she is being mean and spreading rumors about you. Your friend hears from others what you have said and comes to tell you they weren't spending time with you because they are too worried about things happening at home.
