Introduction

Following the 88th State FFA Convention and the vote of the delegates this State Officer Handbook was created and reviewed by an appointed committee of the State FFA Executive Committee during the summer of 2016, to provide information on the role and responsibilities of a state officer for the Missouri FFA Association. This document attempts to answer questions regarding the state officer election process and the state officer year of service.

Most members tend to run for State FFA office because of something in their past experience which has motivated them from an inspirational point of view rather than knowledge of duties and responsibilities of the office. To help you the candidate and your parents understand all the facets and components that make up the office, this handbook was prepared.

One of the highest honors in the FFA is to serve as one of the sixteen (16) state officers. Past officers report this experience to be of great value to them in the succeeding years. It is an honor to serve, only if the job is well done. To serve effectively, a member must be dedicated to the FFA, must possess superior leadership ability and be willing to devote definite times throughout the year to the job.

The process to become an officer can be a lengthy process. You began this process the day you enrolled in your first Agricultural Education course. The experience you gained through classroom instruction, your Supervised Agricultural Experience program and FFA have all helped you develop the necessary skills to serve as a leader of the FFA.

The year as a Missouri FFA officer is a year of service. The decision to run for an office should not be made lightly or without a sincere commitment to serve. Missouri FFA officers have many duties that require extensive travel and numerous days away from home. Missouri FFA Association reimburses expenses incurred by the officers in performance of their duties, but officers will incur personal expenses that cannot be reimbursed.

If you have the desire to serve the FFA members in Missouri and have the support of your family and FFA advisor(s), you should consider participating in the officer selection process. The officer selection process will examine the attitudes and abilities of each officer candidate and reveal which individuals have most completely developed their leadership skills.

All FFA members giving consideration to applying for the state office are encouraged to review the information included in this State Officer Handbook, learn as much as possible about what it truly means to be a state FFA officer, consider the hours of volunteer time you will need to dedicate, and practice for the interview process.

Good luck with your decision

Expectations

With this position of leadership you will have the opportunity to be the center of attention, but public appearance is not the largest part of the job. There will be a lot of hard work. This job is not a vehicle for self-gratification, it is a service job. The best attitude to have as an officer candidate is one of humility and dedication to service and a commitment to give to all students selflessly. To serve selflessly is to give of yourself completely to help FFA members grow and become better people. It means always having the best interest of the members in mind and doing what it takes to serve them.

Rank of office is not a consideration; a state officer team is a “share the wealth and share the work” group. One officer (President) will not get all the personal appearances and the secretary will not write all the letters, everybody will share the work load and be considered equal. You must have the attitude of serving the organization first rather than yourself.

You will not get this experience anywhere else. The growth and maturity that takes place during this year is very rewarding and you will enhance your leadership and interpersonal skills, as well as your self-confidence. You will have the opportunity to meet many wonderful people who will remain friends for life. You will also meet important and influential people in the industry who may be important in your future career. Many personal rewards will come from the members you meet at the various activities you will be engaged in.

While there are many positive outcomes, there are some challenging aspects as well. Your schedule at some times of the year will be grueling with many days away from home and traveling. You are a role model 24/7/365 even when you think you are on your private time. You must strive to be inclusive of all members and not press your particular beliefs (political or religious) onto FFA members. Once elected you are a state officer for life and individuals will not stop looking up to you just because you retired your jacket at the end of the year. You are reminded that once elected you will be looked up to and representing the association to a certain degree forever.

State officer activities will include approximately 20-35 days during the school year and 25-30 days in the summer months. Experiences show that state officers in high school have very few problems meeting these responsibilities. If in high school while serving you will need to make sure you have discussed the responsibilities with your school administration and they understand the expectations. Officers in college also get along quite well, however they are advised to select carefully the courses they enroll in and sometimes reduce the number of hours carried. Those officers that intend to work during their term need to discuss the officer expectations and possible time they will need to be released from work responsibilities. Whether in high school, college or the work place, special attention should be paid to other activities you consider participating in (organizations, athletics, greek life, etc.). The expectation is that this Missouri FFA office be your primary (first choice) activity during this year. Failure to find balance results in the officer struggling in both their educational, work and FFA responsibilities. Remember that staying ahead of the game is much easier than trying to play catch-up for an entire semester or year. Organization, time management, and focus must be a daily part of an officer’s life. Upon request, the Executive Secretary can provide a letter to professors or others explaining the role of a state officer. It is highly recommended that the officer candidates consult current/former state officers from the school they plan on attending to get a “feel” for the best way to approach school and state office.

You will be expected to participate in all meetings and functions that are required by the state advisor, executive secretary, and state staff. Below is a listing of several activities as they occur throughout the year, this is only a tentative list to give you a preview of the years events. Dates for mandatory attendance events are outlined by the State FFA Executive Secretary and will be expanded upon at the BLAST OFF State Officer Training.

Selection Process

Area Selection, Responsibilities and Guidelines

Each Area should select a nominating committee using the parameters outlined in the state selection responsibilities and guidelines portion of this handbook. Writing Exercise

State FFA officers will be expected to complete a number of written correspondences with state staff, students, teachers, sponsors and stakeholders they meet throughout their year of service. The ability to communicate clearly through writing is just as critical as the ability to communicate through speech. Examples of writing exercises could include but will not be limited to the following: letter of request, thank you note, an invitation to a FFA activity, thank you letter, social media posts, officer blog or an article for a newsletter (i.e. FFA Camp). The writing exercise will be based on 100 points and follow the rubric located in the handbook. Time allotment will be 30 minutes.

Example exercise:

✓ Using the following proficiency award sponsor information, prepare letter of thanks for their support.
   o Sponsor Company, Sponsor Contact, Address, Award Sponsored.
C. Stand and Deliver

The stand and deliver round allows the nominating committee to observe the candidate’s ability to develop and organize a prepared speech, deliver a spoken presentation, and respond to questions regarding a given topic or scenario.

The candidate will be presented with three scenarios. Each scenario will include the topic and information about the intended audience. Candidate will chose the topic that best suits them. Candidates will have 10 minutes to prepare a 3-4 minute speech on a topic related to the identified topic area. The candidate will then move to the interview room to deliver their speech.

Note cards will be provided and no outside resources or materials will be allowed in the preparation room. Time will be called at the end of four minutes no matter where the candidate is in delivery. 4 minutes of questions will then be asked to the candidate. Time will be called at the end of 4 minutes of questioning regardless of where the candidate or interviewer is in the response or question.

Topics will be chosen from Agriculture Current Events and Issues, FFA Current Events and Issues, and Education or Agricultural Education Current Events and Issues. The round will be based on 400 points. A list of current hot topics that will be used for the interview will be posted on the DESE website by February 1 of each year. The list will be 6-8 topics in length.

Example of a Stand and Deliver Topic
✓ You have been asked to attend the Governor’s Conference on Agriculture and given the topic of “Building Communities through FFA”. The audience at the conference will include stakeholders from agriculture and statewide media members. Prepare 3-4 minutes of remarks related to the topic. You will then be asked question from audience members.

D. Group, Situation or Role Play Scenario

This activity will observe the candidates ability to handle a scenario or situation that is common to the state officer experience. Being an officer requires people skills to interact with members, advisors, parents, stakeholders and the general public. This could involve a simple role-play or group activity to determine how the candidate(s) would react in a practical officer situation. This activity could occur as a group of 4-6 or as individuals, at the discretion of the nominating committee. This could include but is not limited to the following: plan a workshop or plan and present a piece of a workshop, school board presentation, provide reflections at the end of an event, conversation or meeting with stakeholders (administrators, community leaders, alumni, sponsors) of Agricultural Education and FFA, media interview, roundtable, etc.

The candidate or group will be allowed 10 minutes of preparation time for a 5 minute presentation. There will be 3 minutes allowed for questions from the committee. If a group activity is selected the nominating committee will observe the 10 minutes of preparation as a part of the scoring. This activity will be based on 400 points.

Material that will be provided (no materials can be brought to the room) for the preparation time period: Flip chart, markers, pencils, and note cards.
Example Scenarios:

✓ You are concluding the Wednesday activities of FFA camp. The Camp Leadership Director has taken ill and you are to present the end of the day reflections to the campers before they head to their cabins. The day has been filled with a conservation leadership session on forestry, tournament play, Farm Bureau leadership session on “Telling your Story”, state officer skit and motivational remarks and has concluded with the student lead vesper program. Take your 10 minute preparation time to prepare a 4-5 minute reflection about the day of FFA Camp.

✓ You are attending an Area Greenhand Conference with a National FFA officer: the national officer has become ill and cannot present their 45 minute workshop to the 150 members in attendance. The topic is “FFA Opportunities”. You will take the next 10 minutes and develop the outline and objectives with activities that you will be used to present the workshop. You will then present your completed outline with discussion to the nominating committee.

✓ Scenario: You and three other state officers are on a chapter visit. When you meet the advisor they inform you that in the preparation for your visit they did not mention they wanted you to present a workshop to the local officer team on “Teamwork”. The local officer team will meet in 10 minutes.

Assignment: Take the next 10 minutes and develop the outline (including objectives, introduction, and activities to support your objectives, and the reflections or application the officer team will take with them) you will use to present to the local officer team. At the end of the 10 minutes you will present your completed outline with discussion of each piece to the nominating committee.

E. Follow up Personal Interview

This round will follow the Personal Interview guidelines. This interview can be used to gather new information or ask follow-up questions for clarification purposes. A rubric will be used and this portion is based on 400 points. There will be 8-10 minutes allowed for this interview.

F. Additional Round if desired by Nomination Committee

Open interview for any type of question from the nominating committee. This round may be conducted in any means the committee deems appropriate. This may include group interviews, making introductions, personal reflections, critical thinking, etc. The time will be determined by the committee.
