Sponsors,

- Following is a link to the State Education Technology Directors Association website that has a nice presentation on emerging technology requirements for testing. This will provide you with some starting points as you continue discussions about technology/learning/testing in your schools. You can also go www.setda.org and find a variety of other resources. It is also important for your schools to respond to the Technology Readiness Survey (data gathering) that is facilitated by the Assessment Section here at the Department. I think that Nancy Keating from the Assessment Section will be presenting at your Kansas City meeting in the near future and can talk about the need for accurate reporting of bandwidth and technology tools.

- Thanks to all of you for your support at yesterday's Summit! We will post the Summit information on our website next week.
