The NCSI's Social and Emotional Outcomes Cross-state Learning Collaborative (SEO CSLC) is hosting a series of webinars to support stronger collaborative practices in early intervention. This national conversation aligns with:

- state interest in deepening understanding of the variety of teaming approaches and services provided in early intervention, and
- our collective need to work closely together to achieve positive outcomes.

In this learning series, state and local leaders join national researchers and professional organizations to explore current service delivery models and critical competencies needed to increase child and family outcomes by working across disciplines.
